WHERE AND HOW TO ENTER

KEY INVESTMENT LOCATIONS

Location / Region	Strategic Importance	Priority Sectors
The Valley	Capital of this British Overseas Territory and seat of the Premier, the Governor's Office and the House of Assembly; centre of administration, banking and professional services	Public services, banking, legal and professional services
Clayton J Lloyd International Airport	Runway to be extended from 5,358 ft to 7,000 ft and widened, with Canadian contractor Aecon appointed and completion targeted for early 2029; EC$87 million allocated in the 2026 budget	Aviation, construction, airlift and tourism logistics
South West End / Port Nimara	New 118-berth superyacht marina (vessels of 240+ ft) with its own port of entry, anchored by a 62-room Equinox resort and branded residences; launched in August 2026	Marine tourism, luxury hospitality, branded real estate
West End luxury resort coast	Home to established high-end estates such as Cap Juluca and Altamer, underpinning Anguilla's reputation as a premium, low-density destination	Luxury hotels, villas, hospitality services
Blowing Point	Main sea gateway; sea arrivals account for the majority of visitors in peak months, many of them day-trip excursionists	Ferry and marine services, transport, retail
Corito	Site of a planned 12-megawatt solar farm being financed by the Caribbean Development Bank, with a loan signed in April 2026	Renewable energy, utilities, engineering
.ai digital domain (island-wide)	Anguilla's country-code domain passed one million registrations in January 2026 and generated about EC$230 million in 2025	Digital economy, technology services, public investment

INVESTOR ENTRY ROUTES

- Direct engagement with the Government of Anguilla, which offers development agreements and targeted incentives for large-scale projects such as resorts, marinas and branded residences
- A simple tax regime with no corporate income, personal income, capital gains, inheritance or withholding taxes; a 9% Goods Tax on imports and a 13% General Services Tax apply from 1 August 2025

- Alien Land Holding Licence for non-Anguillian property purchasers, a well-established step in transactions, with stamp duty of up to 12.5% for non-belongers and a 5% transfer tax payable by the seller
- Membership of the Eastern Caribbean Currency Union: the EC dollar has been pegged at EC$2.70 to US$1 since 1976, there are no exchange controls and the US dollar is widely used
- English common law framework with company, LLC, limited partnership and trust structures supervised by the Anguilla Financial Services Commission, backed by economic substance, beneficial ownership and AML/CFT rules
- Public capital programme of EC$233 million in 2026, covering the airport, port, water network and roads, alongside CDB-financed energy projects, creating openings for contractors and suppliers
- Work permits under the Labour Act where local skills are limited, with social security contributions of 5.75% each for employer and employee

MARKET-ENTRY OBSERVATION

Anguilla in October 2026 is a small, high-value economy with strong public finances and a clear investment pipeline. Real GDP grew 3.7% in 2024, taking output above its pre-pandemic level, and the government projects 2.7% growth in 2026. Visitor arrivals reached an all-time high of 229,734 in 2025, with ten of twelve months setting records, while revenue from the .ai internet domain rose to about EC$230 million in 2025, more than double the 2024 figure. These revenues delivered a 2025 fiscal surplus of EC$87.3 million and cut public debt to an estimated 19.9% of GDP, against a regional benchmark of 60%, with no new borrowing planned over the medium term. The government is reinvesting through a EC$233 million capital programme in 2026, led by the airport runway extension, and private investment is following: net FDI was EC$50.9 million (3.8% of GDP) in 2024 and the Port Nimara superyacht marina and Equinox resort launched in 2026.

Anguilla's main structural challenge is concentration: the economy depends on luxury tourism, with the United States supplying over 70% of stayover visitors in peak months, and public revenue now relies heavily on .ai domain income. The territory is building resilience on several fronts. The government plans a Sovereign Wealth Fund to save part of the domain windfall and is using current surpluses to fund long-term assets such as the runway extension, a 12-megawatt solar farm and water and road upgrades. The longer runway, due in early 2029, will allow larger aircraft and new routes, broadening air access, while the solar farm reduces reliance on imported fuel. For investors, this combination of low debt, a stable dollar peg and well-funded infrastructure creates opportunity in hospitality, marine tourism, construction, renewable energy and services linked to the digital economy.

INVESTOR RISK & MARKET ACCESS

KEY ENTRY BARRIERS

Issue	Potential Impact	Possible Mitigation
EU list of non-cooperative tax jurisdictions	Anguilla remains on the EU's Annex I list after the October 2026 update, which can trigger EU defensive tax measures for structures routed through the territory	Take EU tax advice before using Anguillian entities for EU-linked flows; real-economy investment in tourism, property and infrastructure is largely unaffected, and delisting would further improve the outlook
Reliance on .ai domain revenue	Domain income of about EC$230 million in 2025 was expected by ministers to approach half of government revenue, linking public finances to demand for .ai addresses	Planned Sovereign Wealth Fund, no new borrowing and investment in lasting infrastructure convert the windfall into long-term capacity
Air access and runway length	The current 5,358 ft runway limits the size of aircraft that can serve Anguilla directly	The extension to 7,000 ft, due in early 2029, opens opportunities in hotels, airlift and services timed to larger aircraft and new routes
Energy costs and fuel imports	Electricity relies largely on imported fuel, raising operating costs for hotels and businesses	The CDB-financed 12 MW Corito solar farm and on-site renewables offer cost savings and investment openings in clean energy
Public safety	A rise in gun crime in 2025 prompted a UK support package of investigators, armed officers and equipment	The 2026 budget raised police funding by 25% to EC$20.5 million, including island-wide CCTV; investors can apply standard site-security planning

Property acquisition costs for non-belongers	Foreign buyers need an Alien Land Holding Licence and pay stamp duty of up to 12.5% of value	The process is established and predictable; build licensing time and duties into project budgets and use local counsel
Banking sector asset quality	Non-performing loans were 12.8% in 2024, above the ECCB's 5% benchmark, although improving	ECCB supervision and the new regional credit bureau support improvement; larger projects can combine local and regional or international finance

INVESTOR RISK NOTE

Anguilla's risk profile is that of a well-governed, low-debt British Overseas Territory with an English common-law system, a currency pegged to the US dollar for five decades and public finances in surplus. The principal considerations are concentration and compliance rather than macroeconomic stability. Domain revenue has transformed the fiscal position, and the government is using it prudently: debt has fallen to about 19.9% of GDP, no new borrowing is planned and a Sovereign Wealth Fund is proposed. Anguilla's continued presence on the EU's Annex I list is a material compliance point for financial and holding structures, and investors should take tax advice for any EU-linked flows; it has little bearing on direct investment in hotels, real estate, construction or energy. Public safety has received focused attention, with UK support and a 25% rise in police funding. Investors in tourism should plan for seasonal demand and for the airport works through 2029, after which improved air access should support further growth.

MARKET ACCESS

Anguilla is a member of the Eastern Caribbean Currency Union, sharing the EC dollar and the Eastern Caribbean Central Bank with seven other OECS economies, and is an associate member of both the Organisation of Eastern Caribbean States and CARICOM (since 1999). As a British Overseas Territory it benefits from the UK constitutional link and close ties with the UK government. The United States is the dominant market for its main export, tourism, supplying over 70% of stayover visitors in peak months, and sea arrivals through Blowing Point account for most visitors in the busiest months. Anguilla has no double tax treaties, so cross-border structuring requires specialist advice. The runway extension and the Port Nimara port of entry for superyachts will widen direct air and sea access in the coming years.

WHO SHOULD THE INVESTOR MEET?

INSTITUTIONAL LANDSCAPE

Actor	Why It Matters	Waverley Engagement Angle
Office of the Premier and Ministry of Finance (Premier Cora Richardson Hodge)	The Premier also serves as Minister for Finance, setting budget, capital programme and development-agreement policy, including the planned Sovereign Wealth Fund	Primary reference point for large projects and incentive negotiations
Governor's Office (Governor Julia Crouch)	Represents the Crown and the UK government; leads on security and UK support, working alongside the elected government	Key channel for UK-linked engagement and understanding the constitutional framework
Ministry of Infrastructure (Minister Jose Vanterpool)	Leads the airport runway extension and wider infrastructure works and has spoken for the government on .ai revenues	Relevant for construction, aviation and infrastructure partnerships
Eastern Caribbean Central Bank (ECCB)	Monetary authority for the ECCU; maintains the EC$2.70 peg with a reserve backing ratio of 97.6% and supervises banks	Relevant for currency, banking and financial-sector matters
Anguilla Financial Services Commission	Regulator for companies, partnerships, trusts and financial services, including AML/CFT and beneficial ownership rules	Essential for structuring and regulatory compliance
Anguilla Tourist Board	Promotes Anguilla's leading industry and	Partner for hospitality market intelligence

Anguilla Electricity Company (ANGLEC)	Island utility implementing the CDB-financed 12 MW Corito solar farm	Counterpart for energy, renewable and utility-related investment

CURRENT INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS CHANNELS

The Anguilla Hotel and Tourism Association represents the island's core hospitality industry and is a practical first contact for tourism investors, while the Anguilla Tourist Board provides market data and promotion. The Caribbean Development Bank is an active lender, financing the Corito solar farm, and the Eastern Caribbean Central Bank's regional forums and Monetary Council meetings, attended by the Premier, offer insight into ECCU policy. UK engagement runs through the Governor's Office and the FCDO's Minister for the Overseas Territories. Developers and partners in flagship projects such as Port Nimara, together with established resort operators, are useful sources of practical intelligence on approvals, construction and the luxury market.

INVESTOR PROFILE BEST SUITED

Anguilla best suits investors in luxury and boutique hospitality, branded residences and marine tourism who value a stable, low-density, high-value destination with a US-dollar-linked currency and no income or corporate taxes. Construction, engineering and aviation-services firms can target the airport runway extension and the public capital programme, while renewable-energy and utility investors can build on the solar programme. Digital and technology businesses may find opportunities linked to the .ai profile. Financial and holding-structure investors should factor in the EU Annex I listing and take specialist tax advice.

FROM INTELLIGENCE TO ENGAGEMENT

STEP 1: Engage the Premier's Office and Ministry of Finance on project terms
Open dialogue early on development agreements, targeted incentives and how a project fits the 2026 capital programme and national priorities.

STEP 2: Plan land acquisition and licensing
Secure the Alien Land Holding Licence and budget for stamp duty, transfer tax and work permits, using experienced local counsel.

STEP 3: Align tourism investments with the runway timetable
Time hotel, villa and airlift-dependent projects to benefit from the 7,000 ft runway due in early 2029 and from the Port Nimara marina.

STEP 4: Take EU tax and compliance advice on structuring
Assess the effect of the EU Annex I listing on any EU-linked flows and favour structures based on real local activity.

STEP 5: Explore infrastructure and energy partnerships
Engage the Ministry of Infrastructure, ANGLEC and the Caribbean Development Bank on construction, solar and utility opportunities.
